Women and Christian Mysticism: History and Experience
Cynthia Stewart
In this course we will look at the development and interpretation of ecstatic and/or unitive experiences and contemplative connections to the divine beyond all word and thought. We will primarily focus on the experiences of Christian women from the early church through the modern era. As we seek the deeper meaning of mysticism we will work with interpretive models for understanding this phenomenon, including perennialist, feminist and pluralist formations. Students will be encouraged to take a contemplative approach to these explorations, seeking both academic and personal understandings of the connections between mysticism and the lived experience of faith.
To be offered: TBA

RH 586
The Myths Told to Make America Great
Lee Butler
Myth, derived from the Greek word mythos, is a story with deep significance and meaning for a culture, religion, or society. There are myths that inspired those who first crossed the Atlantic. There are myths that gave shape and purpose to the formation of the nation-state of the USA. There are myths the nation-state appeals to in order to determine the national identity. This course will examine the stories, and the symbols within the stories, that give meaning to and guide what it means to be American. Special attention will be given to the myth narrated during specific historical periods–Colonial, Antebellum, Reconstruction-Deconstruction, Jim and Jane Crow, Civil Rights-Human Rights, Post-Civil Rights, and Neo-Reconstruction. As a doctoral seminar, students will be encouraged to bring their specific research concerns into dialogue with the myths and the specified historical periods. TEC 420
Introduction to Political Theology
Eric Weed
This is a reading-intensive and discussion-based survey course in political theology. Since the start of the War on Terrorism, the United States has operated through competing worldviews. This course will investigate these two worlds. The purpose is to equip students to recognize the difference between the often misunderstood concepts of fascism and liberal democracy. The concept of fascism has become a misnomer for denouncing political enemies. This is evident by caricatures of both President Bush and President Obama with Adolf Hitler’s mustache. In particular, the course looks at the upcoming presidential election and apocalyptic ways in which society and pundits are framing the election. As a class, we will work answer the following questions: 1) what is the historical precedent that has led to the perceived importance of 2020? 2) How do we theologically understand the socio-political situation of the 21st Century? 3) As religious leaders, how do we use the knowledge gained in our local contexts? By the end of this class, students will be able to correctly recognize fascist rhetoric and how to use your status as religious leaders to resist.

In this course, we will discuss, and experiment with, the work of theorists of ritual to help us understand how this happens. We will learn and practice methods of ritual criticism, which help us to interpret with more clarity and depth the ritual traditions in which we participate. We will explore how rituals change and how rituals are created to meet newly articulated human needs.
To be offered: F19o

LM 416
Leading Christian Worship: A Practicum in Presiding
Scott Haldeman
This course is a practicum in which we explore skills and concepts required to lead worship, such knowledge of the forms of various services and the genres of prayer within them, building one’s voice, attending to gesture and posture, and developing a strong and sensitive pastoral presence.
Fulfills MDiv requirement.
To be offered: S20, S21, S22

LM 417
Worship in World Religions
Scott Haldeman
To foster peace, tolerance and harmony in world of religious pluralism and conflict, and to better understand one’s own practices, leaders of communities of faith need to become familiar with the beliefs and practices of our neighbors. We will study the forms of worship of a sampling of world religions and visit actual communities to learn how to build relationships of trust.
Interreligious Engagement Concentration elective
To be offered: TBA

LMB 411
Curriculum Design, Development and Integration
Karima Alavi

In this course educators develop ideas, lessons and projects that offer interdisciplinary learning opportunities for their students. Appropriate opportunities for involving religious teachings and outlooks within a critical academic approach are explored. Participants will formulate a scaffolded teaching plan that enables flexibility for varying learner types and levels of ability.

LM 422
Religious Education in a Multicultural World
Heesung Hwang

This course will explore multifaceted dimensions of the society and the role of religious education and interfaith dialogue in it. Students who complete this course will have broader understanding and teaching plans of various issues on race, religion, gender identity and class. MARL Social Transformation and Interreligious Engagement Concentration elective.
To be offered: F19, S20o (S20o course taught in Korean)

LM 425
LGBTQ Learning & Developmental Theories
Heesung Hwang

This course introduces the interdisciplinary field of LGBTQ studies on identity formation and faith development. This course traces sociological, psychological, and religious discourses of the LGBTQ identity development. Throughout this course, students will work toward a deep understanding of the intersectional dynamics of LGBTQ individuals and ministries.
LGBTQ Concentration elective.
To be offered: J20

LM 426
Preaching the Headlines
Reggie Williams

This course studies local, national, and global news events to stimulate the process, design, and practice of dynamic preaching. Through lectures, discussions, and an in-class lab, students will become more effective communicators behind and beyond church pulpits!
To be offered: S20o

LM 428
Liturgies in Chaplaincy Contexts
Zachary Moon

The contexts of chaplaincy ministries are distinct in many ways from the ministries in congregations; however, there are a number situations in chaplaincy ministries that necessitate liturgical expertise including facilitating spiritual practices and rituals, leading worship, and providing sacraments including baptisms and end-of-life liturgies. This course will engage the particularities of chaplaincy contexts including the pluralistic character of ministries in those contexts, and equip students with liturgical competencies for faithful and effective service. Chaplaincy Concentration elective and meets MDiv Worship requirement.
To be offered: Summer2019 hybrid

LM 430
Short-Term Pastoral Counseling Strategies
Lee Butler

We will focus on the effective intervention, management and prevention of crises through the development of counseling skills and techniques. Videotaped role-plays will be one learning tool.
To be offered: TBA

LM 431
Pastoral Care and LGBTQ Experience
Cody Sanders

This course will explore how the praxis of pastoral care is best shaped to respond to the particularities of LGBTQ lived experience, as well as how LGBTQ experience might inform pastoral theology and pastoral praxis more broadly – that is, how critical reflection on LGBTQ lives might queer pastoral care. Students will gain knowledge of the major pastoral issues emerging from the lives of LGBTQ people, encounter relevant social scientific and philosophical theories of sexual/affectional orientation and gender identity, and will develop pastoral theological perspectives conversant with the lived human experience of LGBTQ people. LGBTQ Concentration elective.

To be offered: TBA

LM 433
Memories, Dreams and Theological Reflection
Lee Butler
Dreaming is not only a way of negotiating the stressors of our existence; it is also a medium of Divine communication. This course will consider psychological and theological understandings of dreams and dream interpretation.

To be offered: TBA

LM 435
Spiritual Formation for the 21st Century
Cynthia Stewart
Students will assess where they are on their spiritual journeys and learn tools to help them along their paths. Within the Christian tradition we will work with practices such as prayer and lectio divina and authors such as Richard Rohr, Howard Thurman and Marjorie Thompson. We draw from world religious traditions such as Jewish and Muslim theories and practices of prayer, Buddhist meditation and mindfulness, the four paths of yoga described in the Bhagavad Gita and pranayama and hatha yoga from the Sanatama Dharma (Hindu) traditions. We will study and practice spiritual direction. Our goal will be to articulate elements of our own spirituality as we thoughtfully prepare to answer the question, “What does it mean to live a holistic and inclusive Christian life in the 21st century?”

Chaplaincy Concentration elective.

To be offered: TBA

LM 436
Practical Theology of the Corpse: Cultural, Ethical, & Multi-Religious Perspectives
Cody Sanders
The primary focus of this course will be the event of death itself, the ways that we memorialize our dead, and what we do with our dead bodies. The course will include an introduction to funerary practices in the U.S. and their historical and cultural development, including the growing occurrence of “green/natural burial,” “home funerals,” and other practices outside the norm of what has become “conventional” burial or cremation. It will also introduce students to multireligious and multicultural perspectives on death and dying. Students will develop pastoral and even prophetic perspectives on theological and ethical questions surrounding what we do with our bodies when we die (a question with large-scale economic and environmental implications) and will develop skills to pastorally accompany others through the human experience of death. Chaplaincy Concentration elective.

To be offered: S20

LM 437
Moral Injury and Recovery
Zachary Moon
This course investigates the field of moral injury. Moral injury occurs when intense levels of moral emotions including guilt, shame, disgust, and/or contempt, overwhelm normal human functioning and generate the same symptoms as Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder. Moral injury has been linked to military service and combat traumas and may occur in many other contexts. This course will analyze the theoretical work concerning moral injury and the practical application of providing support for recovery. Chaplaincy Concentration elective. Pre-req: LM 331 or LM 332.

To be offered: FA

LM 438
Pastoral Care with Veterans and Military Families
Zachary Moon
This course examines the challenges and opportunities of providing pastoral care with veterans and military families, focusing on issues including warrior identity, deployment and combat experience, impact on families, post-deployment reintegration, and the role of congregations. This constructive, contextual course is at the intersection of religious traditions, military culture, clinical disciplines and personal experience. Chaplaincy Concentration and MARL Social Transformation elective.

To be offered: TBA

LM 439
Death, Dying, and the Dead: Cultural Perspectives and Pastoral Care
Cody Sanders

One of the most ubiquitous experiences as a minister in any setting is being called upon at the time of death. Students will gain pastoral skills to accompany others through the human experience of loss and death along with prophetic perspectives on theo-ethical questions surrounding what we do with our dead bodies (a question with large-scale economic and environmental implications).
MARL Word & Worship Concentration elective. Chaplaincy Concentration elective.
To be offered: TBA

LM 440
The Psychodynamics of Biblical Narratives
Lee Butler

Review of biblical narratives as foundational for considering human transformation. Hermeneutics for understanding textual dynamics will be grounded in psychological theories, and interpretive perspective will be communicated through creative writing.
MARL Word & Worship Concentration elective.
To be offered: TBA

LM 444
Theology, Ministry and People with Disabilities
Craig Modahl

This course introduces students to issues that confront people with disabilities, their families and faith communities. Through lectures, assigned readings, and conversations with advocates and self-advocates, we will explore these issues. The course will ultimately focus on the implications for ministry. Students will be challenged to think theologically about a variety of issues related to disability including issues of ethics, justice, homiletics and inclusion.
To be offered: TBA

LMB 451
Race, Culture and Identity Among Muslim Americans
Zareena Grewal

This cultural competencies course is designed to enable students to engage in theological reflection on vocation, utilizing resources from critical multiculturalism applied to Muslim American identity and issues of race and culture. Topics include narratives of immigration, indigeneity, and conversion; the framing of Islam as an American religion and its connection to “the Muslim world”; trends in Muslim American institution building, cultural production and critique, and generational shifts in Muslim social justice and anti-racism activism. Non-Christian elective and MARL and MDiv Interreligious Concentration and Muslim Studies Concentration elective.
To be offered: S20h
LM 456
Immersion Study Course: U.S.-Mexico Borderlands
Kate Lassiter and Lisa Zook

A study course that investigates theological, personal, and social-political issues along the border between the United States and Mexico. This course is offered in cooperation with BorderLinks of Tucson, Arizona. Pre-trip assignments and a post-trip assignments are required, as well as meetings by WebEx. Additional cost applies.

To be offered: TBA

LM 457
Greening the Church: Theological and Practical Foundations
Robert Shore-Goss

This course explores the pastoral and theological implications of making the Earth a member of your faith community (campus, worship and sacrament, ministry, eco-justice). But it attempts a deeper collaborative dream of individual and communal eco-conversion that make environmental justice sustainable and energized by contemplative engagement with the Earth and the Earth web of life.
MARL Social Transformation elective.

To be offered: TBA

LM 460
Pastoring Your First Church
Mark Winters

What is it really like to be a pastor? We’ll begin by asking what kind of pastor you want to be, and how that may relate to the kinds of calls you may want to seek. Then, how does one actually begin in a community with this new role? We will address questions relating to supervision of staff, the pastor’s role in church finances, and relating to organizations outside the church. We’ll discuss how to manage conflicting demands from the congregation and how to keep a healthy personal life in parallel with your vocation.

To be offered: Summer 19

LM 462
Pastoral Counseling with the Oppressed
Lee Butler

This course will consider the issues of race, class and gender (and their inter-dependency) and the impact they have upon human accommodations. These oppressions must be considered when working with individuals who struggle for a sense of autonomy, self-determination, and spiritual well-being. Biblical texts will be woven with psychological theories in an effort to strengthen pastoral counselors. Chaplaincy concentration elective.

To be offered: J19

LM 463
The Bible, borders and the nation state’s law of immigration
Craig Mousin

This course will explore the parameters of United States immigration and refugee law and study biblical concepts of welcoming the stranger, defining membership in a community, and exile. By comparing and contrasting the laws of the nation state with biblical understandings of hospitality, students will examine global migration, border control, detention, sanctuary cities and congregations.

To be offered: J20
LM 464
Mobilizing for Justice: Advocacy Ministry with Children and Youth
Janet Wolf
This course involves participation in the summer conference at the Children’s Defense Fund’s Alex Haley Farm in Clinton, TN. This immersion experience provides Bible study and worship, movement-building workshops and forums, ministry resources and networking with religious leaders from across the country. Christians from across the denominational spectrum will explore ministries of justice and child advocacy.
To be offered: Summer19

LM 470

To be offered: J21

LMB 475
Suni-Shia Relations & Intra-faith Issues
Hamid Mavani
This course addresses the emergence of sectarian divisions amongst Muslims in the classical period, and the subsequent development of doctrinal and legal materials sustaining these identities. Historical examples of coexistence and conflict will be analyzed, and more recent efforts to promote intra-faith respect and cooperation will be evaluated.
Non-Christian elective and MARL and MDiv Interreligious Concentration and Muslim Studies Concentration elective. Bayan MDiv requirement.
To be offered: F19h

LMB 476
Islamic Leadership & Spirituality
Jihad Brown
This course provides an overview of models of religious leadership in the Muslim context, from both an historical perspective as well as a contemporary one. Students will study texts that describe the ideal components of Islamic leadership and spirituality and will build essential skills needed to operate as a leader in present-day Muslim settings with a focus on youth, education, finances, board relations, gender issues, counseling, issuing of religious edicts (fatawa), communication with the community, Janaza services, conversion, and interfaith.
Non-Christian elective and MARL and MDiv Interreligious Concentration and Muslim Studies elective. Bayan MDiv requirement.
To be offered: F19h

LMB 477
Facilitating Islamic Life Cycle Rituals
Fouad Elgohari
In this practicum course, students learn the requirements and procedures for various Islamic religious rituals, including birth/aqiqah, conversion, prayer, special supplications, funerary prayer, preparation of the deceased and burial, marriage ceremony, etc. Students will also gain insight and develop resources for facilitating such rituals for non-Muslims who come under their care.
Non-Christian elective and MARL and MDiv Interreligious Concentration and Muslim Studies elective. Bayan MDiv requirement.
To be offered: F19h
Fundraising Strategies for Religious Non-Profits
Shariq Siddiqui

Religious organizations must find ways to raise funds for programs and operations. It is important for leaders to gain awareness of the current giving landscape, and of new approaches to fundraising involving digital platforms, social media, and marketing. This course equips learners with a sense of philanthropic trends, new fundraising approaches, and provides an opportunity to develop grant proposals, budgets, and fundraising action plans.

To be offered: S20h

LMB 479
Counseling Muslims
Hamada Altalib

This course familiarizes students with the basic concepts of mental health to facilitate their collaboration with multidisciplinary teams (including both primary health and mental health professionals) serving the emotional health needs of Muslim communities. The course aims to:
(1) provide students with a general awareness of the cultural factors particular to Muslim communities they will serve (2) provide students with the basic counseling skills to work with Muslims with emotional distress and (3) teach students to recognize and refer Muslims with serious mental illness.
MARL and MDiv Interreligious Concentration and Muslim Studies elective.
To be offered: S20h

LM 485
Community Organizing for Muslim and Interfaith Leaders
Rami Nashashibi

While engaging social justice issues, community organizing has evolved as a distinct and widely adopted methodology over the last century and is credited, in part, to leading to the historic election of the country’s first African American President. This course examines community organizing within the context of the American Muslim experience, providing students with the opportunity to directly engage its strategies through an explicitly spiritual framework.
MARL and MDiv Interreligious Concentration and Muslim Studies elective.
To be offered: S20h

LM 481
Marriage: Rites and Wrongs
Scott Haldeman

In this course, participants try to get below and behind the marriage debates that rage in both the churches and the wider society to explore what marriage is—in theological, moral and legal perspective—and what it might be; and what the wedding is and what it might be.
LGBTQ and MARL Word & Worship Concentration elective.

To be offered: F20o
