RH 302
Interpreting the Hebrew Bible II
Rachel Mikva
An exploration of historical, literary and theological interpretations of the prophetic, short story, and wisdom texts of the Hebrew Bible—with a taste of Apocrypha. We will utilize a range of classical and contemporary lenses, from rabbinic midrash to liberation theology and queer theory. Assignments emphasize interpretation and practical application.
Fulfills MDiv requirement. Pre-req: RH 301.
To be offered: S20e, S20o, S21, S21o, S22, S22o

RH 402
Jewish Thought: Traditionally Rooted, Radically Engaged
Rachel Mikva
An overview of Jewish thought and practice utilizing works of Jewish literature from the rabbinic period to modernity. Texts include Talmud, Midrash, medieval philosophy, commentary, codes, kabbalah, Heschel, Buber. We explore the ideas as they illuminate the worlds of Judaism and beyond, in their historical context and our own day. To be offered: F20 flex

RH 405
Very Different Visions: Jewish and Christian Biblical Interpretation
Rachel Mikva
How do Jewish and Christian exegetes read such different notions of God and humanity out of the same texts? We explore ideas about creation, sin, sex, messiah, body/soul, with attention to multiple ways in which they have been interpreted within Judaism and Christianity
To be offered: TBD

RH 409
Study Tour in Israel and Palestine
Rachel Mikva
History pours out of every rock, and hopes for the future radiate from every face. This 2-week journey explores the biblical heritage, the vitality of the modern State of Israel, and the tremendous challenges in pursuing justice and peace for Palestinians and Israelis. We meet partners in the Jewish and Palestinian communities working on coexistence, sustainability, interreligious engagement, gender and sexuality. Substantial subsidies for CTS students are available. Requires preparatory work in the preceding semester.

RH 411
Judges, Gender and Violence
Ken Stone
This course uses a close reading of Judges to examine both the role of gender in biblical interpretation and the implications of difficult texts for the task of "biblical theology."
To be offered: TBA

RH 416
Dangerous Religious Ideas
Rachel Mikva
Contending that all religious ideas are dangerous, this course examines how Judaism, Christianity, and Islam embedded tools for self-critical faith as a vital part of our spiritual inheritance. Using primary and secondary sources, the class explores how the traditions have dealt with the potentially positive and perilous dimensions of scripture, chooseness and election, supersession and salvation, reward and punishment. One goal of this work is to improve religious discourse in the public square, so students will also develop their voice for public theology.

To be offered: S21

RH 417
Loss and Healing in the Bible and in Rabbinic Literature
Rachel Mikva

An exploration of communal and individual loss, along with the rhetorical and theological strategies for coping, for understanding, for healing. Passages for study include Lamentations, Job, Psalms and Ruth, plus selections from Torah - with midrashic, medieval and modern interpretation. There will be opportunities to address the subject personally, academically and professionally, with some flexibility based on your objectives. Interreligious Engagement elective.

Introduction to Political Theology
Staff
This is a reading-intensive and discussion-based survey course in political theology. Since the start of the War on Terrorism, the United States has operated through competing worldviews. This course will investigate these two worlds. The purpose is to equip students to recognize the difference between the often misunderstood concepts of fascism and liberal democracy. The concept of fascism has become a misnomer for denouncing political enemies. This is evident by caricatures of both President Bush and President Obama with Adolf Hitler’s mustache. In particular, the course looks at the upcoming presidential election and apocalyptic ways in which society and pundits are framing the election. As a class, we will work answer the following questions: 1) what is the historical precedent that has led to the perceived importance of 2020? 2) How do we theologically understand the socio-political situation of the 21st Century? 3) As religious leaders, how do we use the knowledge gained in our local contexts? By the end of this class, students will be able to correctly recognize fascist rhetoric and how to use your status as religious leaders to resist.

Moral injury occurs when intense levels of moral emotions including guilt, shame, disgust, and/or contempt, overwhelm normal human functioning and generate the same symptoms as Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder. Moral injury has been linked to military service and combat traumas and may occur in many other contexts. This course will analyze the theoretical work concerning moral injury and the practical application of providing support for recovery. Chaplaincy Concentration elective. Pre-req: LM 331 or LM 332.
To be offered: FA20o

LM 438
Pastoral Care with Veterans and Military Families
Zachary Moon
This course examines the challenges and opportunities of providing pastoral care with veterans and military families, focusing on issues including warrior identity, deployment and combat experience, impact on families, post-deployment reintegration, and the role of congregations. This constructive, contextual course is at the intersection of religious traditions, military culture, clinical disciplines and personal experience. Chaplaincy Concentration.

LM 439
Death, Dying, and the Dead: Cultural Perspectives and Pastoral Care
Staff
One of the most ubiquitous experiences as a minister in any setting is being called upon at the time of death. Students will gain pastoral skills to accompany others through the human experience of loss and death along with prophetic perspectives on theo-ethical questions surrounding what we do with our dead bodies (a question with large-scale economic and environmental implications).
Chaplaincy Concentration elective.

To be offered: TBA
LM 444
Theology, Ministry and People with Disabilities
Staff
This course introduces students to issues that confront people with disabilities, their families and faith communities. Through lectures, assigned readings, and conversations with advocates and self-advocates, we will explore these issues. The course will ultimately focus on the implications for ministry. Students will be challenged to think theologically about a variety of issues related to disability including issues of ethics, justice, homiletics and inclusion.

LMB 451
Race, Culture and Identity Among Muslim Americans
Bayan Staff
This cultural competencies course is designed to enable students to engage in theological reflection on vocation, utilizing resources from critical multiculturalism applied to Muslim American identity and issues of race and culture. Topics include narratives of immigration, indigeneity, and conversion; the framing of Islam as an American religion and its connection to “the Muslim world”; trends in Muslim American institution building, cultural production and critique, and generational shifts in Muslim social justice and anti-racism activism. Non-Christian elective and MDiv Interreligious Concentration and Muslim Studies Concentration elective.

To be offered: S20h

LM 453
Youth and Young Adult Ministries
Heesung Hwang
This course aims to broaden our understanding of Generation Z's life and culture. Students will explore the role of Christian education in engaging in spiritual development and faith formation with Gen Z in the context of an ever-changing culture. Ministry elective

LM 460
Pastoring Your First Church
Staff
What is it really like to be a pastor? We'll begin by asking what kind of pastor you want to be, and how that may relate to the kinds of calls you may want to seek. Then, how does one actually begin in a community with this new role? We will address questions relating to supervision of staff, the pastor’s role in church finances, and relating to organizations outside the church. We’ll discuss how to manage conflicting demands from the congregation and how to keep a healthy personal life in parallel with your vocation.

To be offered: Summer19

LM 463
The Bible, borders and the nation state’s law of immigration
Staff
This course will explore the parameters of United States immigration and refugee law and study biblical concepts of welcoming the stranger, defining membership in a community, and exile. By comparing and contrasting the laws of the nation state with biblical understandings of hospitality, students will examine global migration, border control, detention, sanctuary cities and congregations.

To be offered: J20

LM 464
Mobilizing for Justice: Advocacy Ministry with Children and Youth
Staff
This course involves participation in the summer conference at the Children’s Defense Fund’s Alex Haley Farm in Clinton, TN. This immersion experience provides Bible study and worship, movement-building workshops and forums, ministry resources and networking with religious leaders from across the country. Christians from across the denominational spectrum will explore ministries of justice and child advocacy.

Facilitating Islamic Life Cycle Rituals
Bayan Staff
In this practicum course, students learn the requirements and procedures for various Islamic religious rituals, including birth/aqiqah, conversion, prayer, special supplications, funerary prayer, preparation of the deceased and burial, marriage ceremony, etc. Students will also gain insight and develop resources for facilitating such rituals for non-Muslims who come under their care. Non-Christian elective and MDiv Interreligious Concentration and Muslim Studies elective. Bayan MDiv requirement.

To be offered: F19h

LMB 478
Fundraising Strategies for Religious Non-Profits
Bayan Staff
Religious organizations must find ways to raise funds for programs and operations. It is important for leaders to gain awareness of the current giving landscape, and of new approaches to fundraising involving digital platforms, social media, and marketing. This course equips learners with a sense of philanthropic trends, new fundraising approaches, and provides an opportunity to develop grant proposals, budgets, and fundraising action plans.

To be offered: S20h

LMB 479
Counseling Muslims
Bayan Staff
This course familiarizes students with the basic concepts of mental health to facilitate their collaboration with multidisciplinary teams (including both primary health and mental health professionals) serving the emotional health needs of Muslim communities. The course aims to: (1) provide students with a general awareness of the cultural factors particular to Muslim communities they will serve (2) provide students with the basic counseling skills to work with Muslims with emotional distress and (3) teach students to recognize and refer Muslims with serious mental illness. MDiv Interreligious Concentration and Muslim Studies elective.
